THREE ARE INJURED WHEN SEDAN IS HIT BY RAILROAD TRAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Graham and Baby Are Injured Sunday

CHILD IS FOUND 60 FEET AWAY

Three Other Children In the Automobile Are Not Hurt

James H. Graham, his wife, and baby were injured when a Ford sedan they were riding in was demolished by a northbound freight train on the Louisville and Nashville railroad at the crossing of the Bee Line highway about half a mile north of Flint, Ala. Three who were riding in the car escaped injuries.

It was said that Mr. Graham and his family were going from their home in Cullman, where he is clerk of the probate judge's office, to Athens, their previous home, when the accident occurred, shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

It is said the main tracks were obscured from view by box cars on the siding, and Graham failed to see the train until it was upon the car. The locomotive hit the rear of the car, knocking it about 20 feet, according to onlookers.

The baby was found about 60 feet from the wreck. It is not known if it was knocked that far, or crawled to the position. Its face was skinned, but it is thought that no other injuries were sustained.

Mr. Graham had two fingers of his right hand badly cut, and his right arm skinned. The extent of Mrs. Graham's injuries are not known. All were sent to the Benevolent hospital. Three other children escaped without a scratch.

Mr. Graham is clerk of the probate office at Cullman, going there from the position of license inspector for this district two years ago.

NEW NEGRO SCHOOL WILL BE DEDICATED

Special Program To Be Given On Friday, November 21

The handsome new negro school building in Decatur will be formally dedicated on Friday, November 21, and patrons of the school were extended an invitation to attend the ceremonies, which will be given in the old building beginning at 10 o'clock.

An interesting program has been arranged for the occasion, including a number of musical numbers by students of the school and others and two or three addresses, and thrills talks.

F. S. Hunt, member of the school board of Decatur, will speak, representing the school board, while W. W. Benson, superintendent of the Decatur school system, also will deliver a message.

Calvin Funeral Held Sunday

Funeral services for J. H. Calvin, beloved local business man, were held from the residence on Ferry street Sunday afternoon.

The services were attended by hundreds of sorrowing friends from over North Alabama. Mr. Calvin had been engaged in business here and Athens and other North Alabama cities for many years and was widely known.

The mark on the water gauge of the river here has remained practically stationary for the last three days, at 1.2 feet.

FINANCIERS WIDOW IS CALLED BY DEATH

MRS. J. P. MORGAN

(Associated Press)

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Frances F. Morgan, widow of J. Pierpont Morgan, died at her home here last night.

Mrs. Morgan was 82 years old. She suffered a stroke ten days ago, followed by pneumonia. She has been unconscious for four days. Efforts were made to prolong her life until the arrival of her son, J. P. Morgan, from a European trip. He is expected to reach New York Friday.

Arrangements for the funeral will be held in abeyance until his arrival.

Mrs. Morgan also is survived by three daughters, Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. Juliet Hamilton and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, all of whom had been at their mother's bedside for a week.

Mrs. Morgan was the daughter of the late Charles Tracey, a distinguished lawyer. Her brother, the late Charles Edward Tracey, was partner of former President Grover Cleveland and the late Francis Stetson.

Mrs. Morgan and the late J. Pierpont Morgan, were married in New York city in 1865. After the death of her husband in 1916, she continued to live on Madison Avenue, where the family long has made its home.

LARGE CROWD HEARS THE NEW PASTOR AT THE FIRST METHODIST

Welcome Is Accorded Minister and Special Musical Program Is Rendered

Before a large congregation at the First Methodist church Sunday night, Rev. Claude O'Rear, D. D., appointed pastor of that church by Bishop W. A. Candler at Talladega early in this month, preached a beautiful, forceful and wonderfully clear sermon from the question: "Am I a Christian?" using as his text: "And they said believe in the Lord, Jesus Christ."

The preacher made it plain that only those who admired, obeyed and believed on Christ are Christians. The congregation was unusually large since, by agreement among the Decatur pastors and congregations, all should join in the Sunday night services at the Methodist church as a mark of appreciation for the coming of Dr. and Mrs. O'Rear.

Doctors Davison and Wallace occupied the pulpit-platform with Dr. O'Rear until the opening of the sermon. Dr. Wallace offered the opening prayer and the closing prayer was by Dr. Davison. The usual musical program for Sunday night services at that church was executed, and in addition Mrs. Joseph M. Pettie sang a solo with Miss Lucile Baker as organ accompanist, that fully sustained the reputation of the singer and inspired and delighted her hearers.

Fundamental Considerations

The outstanding feature of the sermon of last night was that it brought out fundamental considerations as regards the teachings as to what a Christian is. The speaker held a looking glass to his congregation, so to speak, and let them see themselves in the light of the gospel. The words of truth as spoken by

WORK UNDERWAY ON THE MOULTON PIKE FROM HERE

Asphalt From the Mine Near Flint Used On Highway

COMPANY PLANS TO ERECT PLANT

Severe Tests Will Be Given Product In Constant Use

Asphalt from the Southern Rock Asphalt mines, near Flint, is being used in the construction of a short strip of road extending from west Moulton street westward from the city limits.

The asphalt is being laid cold, just as it came from the crusher at the mines. The chief object of this work is experimental. Chemical and laboratory tests of the material have shown excellent results, and it is now being laid on the road for a severe physical test under heavy traffic. Sixteen hundred feet is being laid over a rock base about seven inches thick, making a steady foundation for the experiment. The asphalt is covering about 1200 square to the ton. It is hauled directly from the crusher at the mine in trucks, laid on the road and smoothed, and a steam packer is run over it. The road is then ready for transportation.

Rock is being taken from three holes on Patterson hill, about one and one-half miles west of Flint.

The Southern Asphalt company plans to construct a mill at Flint, sometime this winter. The plant is expected to be in operation when spring opens. It will turn out 250 tons per day, at a cost of about $8 per ton.

L. D. Powell, secretary-treasurer of the company, is here from Louisville, Ky., supervising the work of laying the surface of the Moulton road, and checking the effect.

The city of Albany has contracted for a load of the asphalt a day to be used in patching the streets.

Dr. O'Rear were in part as follows:

"There are three marks of a Christian—first, he admires Christ and likes His way of doing things; second, he obeys Christ, absolutely, and, third, he believes what Christ says."

"In the first place, a Christian is one who admires what Christ came to do, and what He is. A Christian is one who loves the method and way of Christ. He came to seek and to save. Do we like to see people who are lost saved? Do we like men and women who do like Christ did? If we do not care for those who are Christ-like, then we are not Christians. Christians are those who have 'the mind which was also in Christ Jesus, the Lord.'"

You cannot disregard what Christ lived for and died for and be His followers. You must love Him and admire Him for what He was and what He did. But that is not enough. Many admire Christ, they may love the selfishness for which He stood and still not be Christians. Why? Because they are not willing to go the way."

In the Second Place

Christians obey Christ. We must do His will. This means obedience, absolute unflinching and unhesitating. It means I must live the good life in this generation regardless of the cost. If you do not have the spirit of obedience to Christ you are not a Christian. If you do injury to a woman, a child—if you are untrue to your marriage vow—if you play a double part—you know Christ does not want you to do that—you certainly are not obedient to Him.

MUCH INTEREST IS BEING SHOWN HERE IN 'IRON CLAD DAY'

Special Displays Made Of Product Of the Local Plant

MATINEE PARTY AT THE PRINCESS

President of Company To Be Entertained During His Visit

Merchants generally are showing a great deal of interest in Iron Clad Hosiery day. Iron Clad hosiery is being displayed in many windows, and along with it merchants are offering many bargains on holiday goods in large stocks.

The Albany hosiery mills will be thrown open for inspection by the public from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. tomorrow.

J. Ogden Wells, president of the Cooper-Wells mills, accompanied by Mrs. Wells, will reach here early tomorrow morning.

The Albany hosiery mills will be thrown open for inspection by the public from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Tuesday. The mill has been beautifully decorated and the local superintendent, V. L. King, has so arranged operation that the public may view the manufacture of Iron Clad hosiery through its three complete processes.

The operations of six different numbers will be shown, including infants' ribbed, boys' and misses' ribbed, and ladies' mercerized.

At 2 o'clock the ladies' matinee at the Princess theatre, showing Baby Peggy in her first big picture, "The Darling of New York," a highly praised picture, will begin. Ladies and young ladies above 16 years of age may get complimentary tickets from merchants and business houses who are giving the party. These tickets are free.

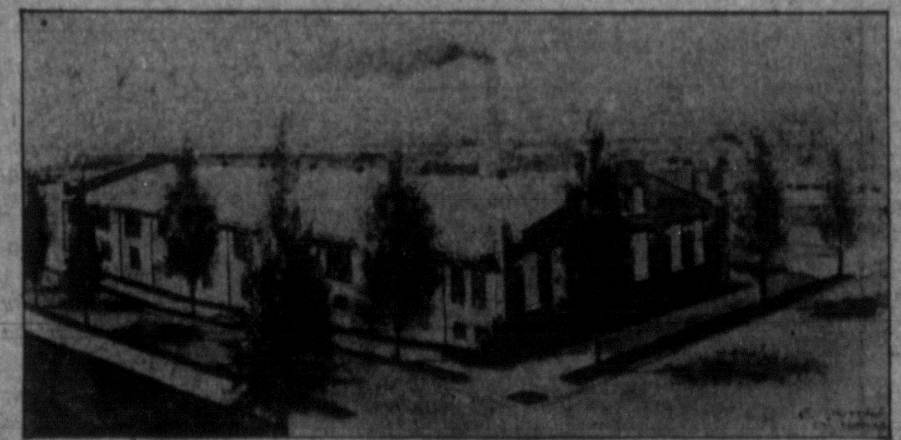

Complimentary tickets for the ladies matinee will be available Tuesday morning at the following business houses of Albany-Decatur and the Albany-Decatur Chamber of Commerce announces that distribution will be made only through these stores:

Capital Cases Are Set For Wednesday

Wednesday will be "capital case" day in circuit court. Officials announced today that the following cases have been set for trial on that date: Riley Cheatam, negro, accused of having been the cause of the drowning of several negroes in the Tennessee river west of here; Lucy Clack, negro, accused of having cut another negro woman; Preston Gilbert, accused of having robbed O. W. Stinson; Silas Blankenship, accused of having shot to death Mr. Tosh, a blacksmith at Priceville.

GREETINGS ARE EXTENDED MILL AND OWNER BY CIVIC UNIT HERE

By W. J. Meininger, Secretary-Manager Albany-Decatur Chamber of Commerce

No better example of genius in things commercial than the story of Iron Clad—from an institution of modest proportions—to a nationally known one. A corporation with a heart—display of its faith in this community is evidenced by the Albany Hosiery Mills—unquestionably the finest—the most modern of such plants in the United States.

Equipped with up to date machinery and the latest conveniences for its employees—its mill is a credit to the Cooper-Wells Company.

Engineering experts have pronounced it the last word in construction and operation.

Built on honesty, quality, and square dealings—Iron Clad Hosiery will live long after other brands have been forgotten—and if ever better hosiery is made it is sure to be Iron Clad—comfort, maximum service, and fair prices are their maxims and sure winners.

The Albany Hosiery Mills were built in the early days of 1923, an investment to $50,000—its initial operation having begun on September 19, 1921—and throughout that period its operation has been continuous, successful and profitable.

Its employees number 110 young ladies, 9 men and the superintendent, V. L. King—with the master mind, J. Ogden Wells, president of Cooper-Wells & Co., with St. Joseph, Mich., headquarters, as its president and directing head.

The mill is the personification of cleanliness, efficiency and above all a happy group of employees—members of one big family—contented and interested in the success of their work.

Output of the local mill approximates 3,500 dozen pairs per week—with a monthly payroll aggregating $5,000 and let it be said to the credit of those employees—believers in home industry—that they deserve especial mention for their "Buy At Home" spirit.

The spirit of thrift—of progressiveness, of faith—the success of its operations is due to one man.

Its accomplishments are an outstanding note in the business world today.

The marvelous success of Iron Clad is a tribute to the genius of J. Ogden Wells!

LABOR CONVENTION OPENS IN EL PASO

International Sessions Are Planned By Organizations

(Associated Press)
EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 17.—The forty fourth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor opened here today. Some 400 delegates, spokesmen for approximately 3,000,000 workers, affiliated with 107 craft organizations, entered the initial session, faced with the task of shaping labor's program in industry, politics and civic enterprise for the coming year.

Debate in three departmental conferences last week forecast a general convention keynoted on a determined stand against wage reductions. Labor interests of two nations centered in this district today for as the American Federation opened its convention here, the Mexican Confederation of Labor met in Juarez, across the international bridge. The Mexican delegates late today will march to Liberty Hall here for a joint session with the Americans.

The American convention will move to Juarez for a joint session in the Juarez theatre tomorrow evening.

The report of the executive council, summarizing the work of the federation since the Portland, Ore., convention of October, 1923, the annual address of President Samuel Gompers, and the address of welcome by executive secretary George H. Slater, of the Texas state federation, made up the program of the initial session today of the American Federation of Labor.

Jersey City Piers Will Be Rebuilt

(Associated Press)

JERSEY CITY, Nov. 17.—Immediate reconstruction of the Erie Railroad company's waterfront property, wiped out by a $1,500,000 fire yesterday was ordered today by J. J. Mantell, vice president and general manager of the road.

Even before the debris of two large railroad piers, 14 river barges, a steam lighter and much valuable freight had cooled, Mr. Mantell directed wrecking crews to the scene.

NEW PASTOR GIVEN CORDIAL WELCOME

Rev. Barnes Preaches Initial Sermon At 9th St. Church

Declaring that fate is no respecter of nations and that as sure as fate America will become one with the dead nations of the past unless Americans cease their downward course, and seek Godliness, Rev. William Barnes, new pastor of the Ninth Street Methodist church, spoke Sunday night at his church from the text: "Seek Ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you."

The sermon was heard by a packed house, three South Albany churches having given up their regular Sunday evening services, in order to welcome Rev. Barnes to his new pastorate.

Rev. Olive, pastor of the Southside Baptist, Rev. Penland, pastor of the Willoughby Presbyterian and Rev. Stewart, pastor of the Associate Reform Presbyterian church, took part in the service. Following an inspiring song service at the opening, led by Prof. E. W. Loxson, Rev. Olive and Rev. Stewart led in prayer at the request of Rev. Barnes. The final prayer was by Rev. A. N. Penland.

The subject of Rev. Barnes' discourse was "The Profit of Godliness." The preacher held that just as Godliness is profitable, so un-Godliness is extremely unprofitable. A review of the world's history was given, and the places where nations had failed were pointed out in a striking manner by Rev. Barnes, whose effort has been highly complimented by his fellow ministers and many others.

The speaker showed that in individual life, Godliness is of great value, and he encouraged his many hearers to support the church in its efforts to redeem the earth from error.

SHIPPING SUFFERS; COAST SHIVERS AS THE STORM RAGES

Coastguard Cutter Is Sent To Rescue Of Two Schooners

ONE MAN DEAD OF EXPOSURE TODAY

Considerable Snow Is Reported In Parts New York State

(Associated Press)

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—A northwest gale that raged off Cape Cod last night brought distress to shipping.

The coastguard cutter Tampa was sent out from here in haste today with receipt of word that the schooners W. T. Bell, of Norfolk, formerly a lightship and the Storm Petrel, of Ellsworth, Maine, were in trouble off Chatham.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Cold weather records for this year of many years standing were shattered in parts of New York and New England last night and early today, the mercury in some places dropping to zero or below.

In Northern New York there was considerable snowfall. In New York city the mercury hovered about 30 degrees during the early hours, making the day as the coldest this season. There was a slight snow flurry during the night, but all traces of it had disappeared at daylight.

An unidentified man died of exposure during the night.

In Hartford, Conn., John Yardy was frozen to death.

In the Litchfield Hills, in Connecticut, temperature of eight to ten degrees below zero was reported.

Pittsfield, in Western Mass., reported a temperature of five degrees above zero, the mercury dropping 57 degrees in 48 hours.

Central, Vermont, experienced a blizzard which raged throughout the night.

Montpelier reported a minimum temperature of zero. At Springfield, Mass., the official reading was ten above zero down to seven and eight above.

The demand for denatured alcohol for automobile radiators reached record proportions and many filling stations ran out of supply early in the day.

At Providence, R. I., a gale of between 60 and 70 miles an hour was reported.

Considerable damage in broken plate glass windows was wrought by the high winds in Newark, N. J.

Lake Ontario shipping was reported practically at a standstill with a 20 mile gale lashing the lake. Snowfall in the lake region generally was light.

The temperature this morning was rising in most sections.

CAIN RE-ELECTED AS FARM BUREAU HEAD

Collier and Russell Are Named By Bureau As Vice Presidents

James F. Cain was elected president of the Morgan County Farm Bureau at Hartselle Saturday. Rev. Ben Collier and Dr. T. J. Russell were elected vice presidents. H. L. Burleson declined to run for re-election as secretary-treasurer. The new name for that office will be announced later.

The principal address was made by President Edward O'Neal of the Alabama farm bureau, in which he stated that the farmers had been the poorest paid class in the United States until within the past two or three years. J. C. Ford also made an address, in which he stated that the Morgan county bureau had 500 members at present.

SPORTS

Champ Contenders Fall, Others Rise to Take Their Places As Season Nears End

We be to the father who neglects his son's allowance, thus singeth the student who once proudly flaunted the Crimson of Alabama against the Yellow and White of old Centre the best in the southland rather than the far famed Alabama eleven which had gone through the season with a record showing no defeats and plenty of victories. Regardless of the outcome of the game it has been noised about that the stadium at Birmingham has been sold out for the Alabama-Georgia fracas on Thanksgiving.

Georgia scattered big drops of cold water over the Auburn attack and thereby maintained a record that has stood clean thus far with the exception of the one point defeat handed them by Yale earlier in the season. The Bulldog allowed Auburn but one chance to penetrate Georgia territory and then refused to allow the Plainsmen to threaten seriously.

Washington and Lee, the third of the contenders for the championship, fought the powerful Mountaineer eleven from the hills of West Virginia to a standstill the game rocking along a scoreless tie until the last five minutes of play when the Mountaineers pushed over a touchdown. The story of the game reads like the fiction of high school days. A substitute for four years on the Mountaineer eleven was sent into the breach and scored the winning points where some of the greatest backfield men in the country had failed to penetrate. Southern writers have failed to look upon the Generals as possible contenders for the Southern title but surely the Generals were defeated by West Virginia by a smaller score than Centre was given when they met the Mountaineers on the Polo Grounds. Thus is the championship left with the Georgia Bulldog in the fore and with the Tide and the Generals practically on an even footing for the runner up title.

Local High Lost To Huntsville High 21-6

Friday afternoon the Albany High school went over to Huntsville and lost a hard fought game to the high school of that city by a score of 21-6. Giers plunged over for the only Albany counter. The local team fought all the way but were handicapped as they have been all season by a preponderance of weight in the other team.

The game is the first that Huntsville has won from an Albany team in a number of years, athletics of any sort, and no doubt, the victory was sweet to them. The Huntsville team is a much better team than it was last year when it met the powerful Central machine for an overwhelming defeat on the local field.

In all the defeats that have been handed the Madison county lads they have ever shown sportsmanship and friendliness and have shown that they were just as good losers as winners.

The Morgan-Independent game of last Friday was witnessed by a crowd estimated at over 500 people. The local Independent team guaranteed the Morgan team $125 to come down and entertain the local folks. The local folks responded with $75 for the afternoon. This means that 150 people of the crowd of over 500 paid to see the game, the rest saw the game, were given an afternoon of entertainment, free of charge, that is the expense was borne by the local athletic association sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. and the Louisville & Nashville shophmen.

The men who are playing in the Independent lineup are not receiving one cent for the services that they are giving and they have personally subscribed enough money within their own team to pay for the coaching that they have had this year. They are not appealing to you for the remainder of their schedule out of town, but they are asking that you support the local high schools who probably have one more game at home and look forward to your support next year.

GROTTO CLUB GETS KAMRAM'S PRAISES

Local Organization Is Said To Have Live Wire Membership

The Albany-Decatur Grotto Club is given high praise by Kamram Grotto, in a letter sent out to the membership by Jesse L. Hagy, monarch. In speaking of the local organization and the forthcoming ceremonial here on December 12, Monarch Hagy's letter says:

Don't forget the big ceremonial at Albany-Decatur, December 12th, 1924. The Albany-Decatur Grotto Club is composed of real live wires, and they are going to provide a splendid class and make this ceremonial a real ceremonial. The boys at Albany-Decatur have got the real Kamram spirit. When they start to do something, they do it in a big way. If you are located in North Alabama get an application and send it to Prophet E. E. Dickinson, 216 Church street, Decatur, Ala. Dick will do the rest. Or, if you get an applicant located in some other part of our jurisdiction and want him to go to Decatur, December 12th, for his initiation, send his application to Prophet H. B. Kirby, Secretary, Masonic Temple, Birmingham, Ala., or to Prophet T. C. McCain, chairman membership committee, 111 North Twenty-first street, Birmingham, Ala. Either of these boys will do the necessary.

The Monarch's letter also calls attention to the purchase of the Birmingham Motor and Country Club property for use of the Grotto. Monarch Hagy writes:

Realizing that the success of Kamram Grotto depends in a large measure on its acquiring a home in the early stages of its existence, your officers have acquired for Kamram Grotto what is known as the old Birmingham Motor and Country Club site, consisting of approximately 400 acres of land, a club house, the largest concrete swimming pool in the world, a bath house, a dancing pavilion, and other appurtenances. The property at one time had a beautiful lake on it, and is contemplated to rebuild the lake in an early season. This is perhaps one of the finest pieces of property for a club to be found anywhere in the South. The location is ideal—just six miles from Birmingham it nestles between Shades Mountain and the surrounding hills in the form of a giant amphitheater through which flows beautiful Shades creek. There are paved roads and a car line running to the property, giving us everything required for a beautiful club and a permanent home. We expect to have everything in the way of amusements that the heart can desire, such as boating, bathing, dancing, tennis, baseball, bowling, volley ball, hand ball, fishing and other privileges too numerous to mention. Boys it is a wonderful proposition with unlimited possibilities, and it's yours! We want you to see it for yourself. We want you to see one of the finest club sites in the United States, and a piece of property worth many times what it cost, a piece of property that is going to make Kamram Grotto the outstanding fraternal organization in the whole country.

New Method Heals Pyorrhea

Ten Year Bad Case Completely Healed In A Short Time Writes Florida Woman

Faced with the loss of her teeth, after 10 years' suffering, Mrs. M. J. Travis, an esteemed resident of Jacksonville, declares she finally saved her teeth by a simple home treatment: "worth its weight in gold," using her own words: "After having pyorrhea for 10 years my mouth is now healed. Before I found out differently, I was told there was no relief and had yielded to the loss of six fine solid teeth. Then I discovered Moore's pyorrhea treatment. Three days after starting its use, the soreness left my gums; my teeth began to tighten. Now my teeth are clean, my breath sweet, and my mouth completely healed."

The experience of Mrs. Travis is duplicated in hundreds of other cases. If you have pyorrhea—or threatened with pyorrhea your teeth are in danger. Quick and effective treatment is necessary. You can test, without money risk, the treatment used by Mrs. Travis. Simply write the Mooreham Co., 111 Gateway Station, Kansas City, Mo. Under their guarantee to refund send two dollars. Or, pay postman the $2 with few cents postage. Use the treatment 7 days. Then if you are not wholly satisfied, write to that effect and your $2 will be returned at once.—Adv.

And then her voice, crisp and steady, cut into his torture of consideration.

"Why did you deny him?"
He swung round again to face her, amazed, horror-stricken.
"You understood?" he gasped.
"I understood enough," said she. "This lingua franca is none so different from French." And again she asked—

"Why did you deny him?"
He paced across to her side and stood looking down at her.
"Do you ask why?"
"Indeed," she said bitterly, "there is scarce the need perhaps. And yet can it be that your lust of vengeance is so insatiable that sooner than willingly forego an ounce of it you will lose your head?"

His face became grim again.
"Of course," he sneered, "it would be so that you'd interpret me."
"Nay. If I have asked it is because I doubt."

"Do you realize what it can mean to become the prey of Asad-ed-Din?"

She shuddered, and her glance fell from his, yet her voice was composed when she answered him—

"Is it so very much worse than becoming the prey of Oliver-Reis or Sakr-el-Bahr, or whatever they may call you?"

"If you say that it is all one to you there's an end to my opposing him," he answered coldly. "You may go to him. If I resisted him—like a fool, perhaps—it was for no sake of vengeance upon you. It was because the thought of it fills me with horror."

"Then it should fill you with horror of yourself no less," said she. His answer startled her.

"Perhaps it does," he said scarcely above a murmur. "Perhaps it does."

She flashed him an upward glance and looked as if she would have spoken. But he went on, suddenly passionate, without giving her time to interrupt him.

"O God! It needed this to show me the villainess of the thing I have done. Asad has no such motives as had I. I wanted you that I might punish you. But he—O God!" he groaned, and for a moment put his face to his hands.

She rose slowly, a strange agitation stirring in her, her bosom glowing. But in his overwrought condition he failed to observe it. And then like a ray of hope to illumine his despair came the counsel that Fenzileh had given him, the barrier which she had said that Asad, being a devout Moslem, would never dare to violate.

"There is a way," he cried. "There is the way suggested by Fenzileh at the promptings of her malice."

An instant he hesitated, his eyes averted. Then he made his plunge. "You must marry me."

It was almost as if he had struck her. She recoiled, instantly suspicion awoke in her: swiftly it grew to a conviction that he had but sought to trick her by a pretended penitence.

"Marry you!" she echoed. "Aye," he insisted.

And he set himself to explain to her how if she were his wife she must be sacred and inviolable to all good Moslems, that none could set a finger upon her without doing outrage to the Prophet's holy law, and that whoever might be so disposed Asad was not of those, since Asad was perversely devout.

"Thus only," he ended, "can I place you beyond his reach."

But she was still scornfully reluctant. "It is too desperate a remedy even for so desperate an ill," said she, and thus drove him into a frenzy of impatience with her.

"You must, I say," he insisted almost angrily. "You must—or else consent to be borne this very night to Asad's harem—and not even as his wife, but as his slave. Oh, you must trust me for your own sake!"

"Trust you?" she cried, and almost laughed in the intensity of her scorn. "Trust you! How can I trust one who is a renegade and worse?"

He controlled himself that he might reason with her, that by cold logic he might conquer her consent. "You are very unmerciful," he said. "In judging me you leave out of all account the suffering through which I have gone and what yourself contributed to it. Knowing now how falsely I was accused and what other bitter wrongs I suffered, consider that I was one to whom the man and woman I most loved in all this world had proven false. I had lost faith in man and in God, and if I became a Moslem, a renegade, and a corsair, it was because there was no other way by which I could escape the unutterable toll of the war to which I had been chained. He looked at her sadly. "Can you find no excuse for me in all that?"

It moved her a little, for it maintained a hostile attitude, at least she put aside her scorn.

"No wrongs," she told him, a most with sorrow in her voice, "could justify you in outrageous chivalry, in dishonoring your mother, in abusing your strength to persecute a woman. Whatever causes that may have led to it, you have fallen too low, sir, to make it possible that I should trust you."

He bowed his head under the rebuke which already he had uttered in his own heart. It was just an most deserved, and since he recognized its justice he found it impossible to resent it.

"I know," he said. "But I am not asking you to trust me to my profit but to your own. It is for your sake alone that I implore you to do this."

Upon a sudden inspiration, he drew the heavy dagger from his belt and proffered it, hill-foremost.

"If you need an earnest of my good faith," he said, "take this knife with which tonight you attempted to stab yourself. At the first sign that I am false, trust-use it as you will—upon me or upon yourself."

She pondered him to some surprise. Then slowly she put out her hand to take the weapon, as he bade her.

"Are you not afraid," she asked him, "that I shall use it now and so make an end?"

"I am trusting you," he said, "that in return you may trust me. Further, I am arming you against the worst. For if it comes to choice between death and Asad, I shall prove your choice of death. But let me add that it were foolish to choose death whilst yet there is a chance of life."

"What chance?" she asked, with a faint return of her old scorn. "The chance of life with you?"

"No," he answered firmly. "If you will trust me I swear that I will seek to undo the evil I have done. Listen. At dawn my galleon sails out upon a raid. I will convey you secretly aboard and find a way to land you in some Christian country—Italy or France—whence you may make your way home again."

"But meanwhile," she reminded him, "I shall have become your wife."

He smiled wistfully.

"Do you still fear a trap? Can't you convince you of my sincerity? A Moslem marriage is not binding upon a Christian; and I shall account it no marriage. It will be no more than a pretense to shelter you until we are away."

"How can I trust your word in that?"

"How?" He paused, baffled; but only for a moment.

"You have the dagger," he answered pregnantly.

She stood considering, her eyes upon the weapon's livid gleaming blade.

"And this marriage?" she asked. "How is it to take place?"

He explained to her then that by the Moslem law all that was required was a declaration made before a kadi or his superior and in the presence of witnesses. He was still at his explanation when from below there came a sound of voices, the tramp of feet, and the dash of torches.

"Here is Asad returning in force," he cried, and his voice trembled. "Do you consent?"

"But the kadi?" she inquired, and by the question he knew that she was won to his way of saving her.

"I said the kadi or his superior. Asad himself shall be our priest, his followers our witnesses."

"And if he refuses? He will refuse!" she cried, clasping her hands before her in her excitement.

"I shall not ask him. I shall take him by surprise."

"It must anger him. He may avenge himself for what he must deem a trick."

"Aye," he answered, wild-eyed. "I have thought of that, too. But it is a risk we must run. If we do not prevail, then—"

"I have the dagger," she cried fearlessly.

"And for me there will be the rope or the sword," he answered. "Be calm! They come!"

But the steps that pattered up the stairs were Ali's. He swung upon the terrace in alarm.

"My lord, my lord! Asad-ed-Din is here in force. He has an armed following with him!"

"There is naught to fear," said Sakr-el-Bahr, with every show of calm. "All will be well."

Asad swept up the stairs and out upon that terrace to confront his rebellious lieutenant. After him came a dozen black-robed janissaries with scimitars along which the light of the torches rippled in little ripples as of blood.

A DAILY PRAYER—May the least divine impression on the faces of the least of Thy brethren, be seen and appreciated by us—to where we will help and encourage all.BETTER TIMES, SUCH AS DONOHUE PREDICTED ARE ON WAY

The prediction of J. J. Donohue, chief claim attorney of the L. & N. R. R. made here in a recent public address, to the effect that he would not be surprised if next year the railroads handled "55,000,000 revenue producing loaded cars" was brought to the attention of many Twin City people by the published statement of a few days ago showing that in one week the railroads had handled 1,000,000 cars.

Multiply one million by 52 the number of weeks in a year, and the product is 52,000,000, not so far from 55,000,000, the mark set by Mr. Donohue. In regard to the number of cars used by railroads, the exact words of Mr. Donohue while here were:

"It is only necessary to call attention to the fact that in 1923 50,000,000 cars loaded with revenue freight were handled without a major congestion anywhere, without an embargo of moment and to the entire satisfaction of the shipping public. And 50,000,000 cars loaded with revenue freight was the record for all time. I believe that we are on the threshold of a period of great business expansion—I want to digress here long enough to say that I hope the port of New Orleans will get its full share of business moving next year, and I know it will; the wish is father to the thought. If I am not mistaken about business conditions, it may be that the railroads in 1925 will be called upon to handle 55,000,000 cars loaded with revenue freight, and, if they are, the emergency will be met as it was in 1923, because our house is in order, our equipment is in good shape, and the morale of our operating forces has never been better."

It should be borne in mind that things are happening right along, to give force to the statement of Mr. Donohue where he said "I believe we are on the threshold of a period of great business expansion."

THE ORDER OF BUILDERS FOR BOYS

One is justified in believing that any organization of youths which gives a Bible to each member on his initiation, with the instruction that he shall regard it as a guidebook for his travels and read it at home each day, has a firm foundation for its superstructure. Moreover, any body which takes its inspiration from the idea of serving as a preventative of those conditions which too often lead to the degeneration of a nation's otherwise most dependable young manhood deserves at least consideration. Such are the ideals of the Order of the Builders for Boys, which from a little group of thirty-three boys, sons and brothers of Freemasons, organized in Chicago less than four years ago, has grown to national proportions with a membership in various sections of the United States close on 50,000.

Not that the mere banding together of boys or men is in and of itself necessarily desirable, for the larger proportions an organization attains the harder oftentimes it is to keep out those elements which make for selfishness and self-seeking. But when the fundamental of an organization's existence is the raising of a more worthy manhood, there seems every reason to believe that so long as it keeps its purpose pure, it will thrive and prosper.

One learns that an essential teaching of this order is giving, the boys being urged to give of themselves in companionship not only to fellow members but to those outside the order with whom they come in contact. "They are told," in fact, we read, "to let their light shine." Herein is really the justification for any such grouping of individuals of this nature. The fundamental underlying it should be the brotherhood of man. When this idea is implanted in consciousness with sufficient strength, there will be no need for fraternities and similar organizations, for there will be a universal relationship established on firmer grounds than any human institution could ever attain. Until that happy day arrives, however, groupings with ideals similar to those proposed by the Order of the Builders for Boys are welcomed for the good they can do.—Christian Science Monitor.

A NOTABLE EXAMPLE OF LOCAL "DRY FARMING"

The "dry farming" accomplishments of Edwin Baker, a local man, who spends some of his time in the city, looking after other businesses, are too remarkable to be passed over lightly. With only one rain on his three acres in turnips near the Twin Cities by the use of modern dry farming tools and methods, Mr. Baker has already sold $700 worth of turnips and turnip greens, from his present crop, and the crop due to market $800 worth of the same products from the same acres before Christmas.

In addition to what he did with turnips, Mr. Baker began this summer to raise okra, and on about an acre of ground he has raised over $500 of that garden vegetable.

Four acres of ground, then are to bring in over $2,000. Such an accomplishment is a practical demonstration of the possibilities of farming right here at our doors. There has been no difficulty in finding a market for either the turnips, the greens or the okra. Those products were sold like hot cakes throughout the cities.

It is said that only a few new tools are necessary to enable "dry" farming to be done here in the Tennessee Valley, and that the main thing, is to work the produce frequently but not very deep. It has been shown that ground holds the moisture much better, if it is not disturbed to a great depth—once the ground at planting time has been worked according to the approved rules.

APPLES AS FOOD

A Canadian employed by the Dominion as a tester of apples grown in the government experimental orchards stated in an address before the American Pomological Society in Atlantic City Wednesday that he has eaten an average of 16 apples a day for 26 years and they have kept him in good health. There may be no connection between the two things. It may merely be a co-incidence that he remained well while eating apples. But it probably is significant.

There is a saying "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." It is based on scientific truth. The early settlers of this country, being engaged in arduous muscular work, required meat. They did not regard fruit as food, but as a luxury of no nutritive value. The habits of life of people of today, comparatively few of whom perform the rough manual toil that was the daily portion of the pioneers, make meat less necessary; and fruit has been found to contain elements which make it an important article of diet. In his treatise on "The New Dietetics" Dr. J. H. Kellogg says: "Fruits may justly be regarded as among the most refined as well as the most delicious of natural food products. Their attractive aroma, due to the presence of essential oils, their tasty and refreshing juices, together with their valuable sugars, vitamins, salts and acids, give to them a very important place in the category of useful foodstuffs."

The city dweller, leading a more or less sedentary life, needs fruit for health, and no more agreeable way can be found to meet this dietary requirement than in eating apples.—Selma Times Journal.

TEN MEN HELD FOR DEATH OF WOMAN SLAIN WHILE TRYING TO SAVE HUSBAND FROM MOB

(Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Nov. 17.—Ten men are in jail at Buchanan, Ga., Harlison county, today on charges of having been members of the gang which, on Thursday night, shot and fatally wounded Mrs. Robert Stewart at Draketon, Ga., when she went to the rescue of her husband, who was being abducted.

Mr. Stewart is a member of the North Georgia Methodist Conference and has been active in the fight on bootleggers and moonshiners.

It is planned to give them a preliminary hearing Wednesday before a justice of the peace at Buchanan. Search for other members of the gang was in progress today. Mr. Stewart, who assisted in the round up of the ten men in jail, was not a member of the posse today, having temporarily abandoned the hunt to attend the funeral services for his wife, which were held in the little mountain community in North Georgia, from which she departed several years ago as the "wife of a circuit rider."

Simple exercises marked the burial. Tributes were made to her memory and her last act, the sacrifice of her life to save her husband, were eulogized.

Similar eulogies were heard in many churches of the North Georgia conference yesterday, in which she was referred to as a heroine, a martyr and a "victim of lawlessness."

while doing so."

In this connection the preacher quoted the Bible lines about the wise man who built his house on a solid foundation.

In the Third Place

"In the third and last place, Christians must believe Christ," declared the speaker.

"I do the believing, He does the saving. If you do this in an honest way you are a Christian. I mean if you love and obey and believe in Christ you are a Christian, whether you feel that way about it or not." The speaker warned that we are not to seek right feelings, before we have experienced Christianity.

It was shown to be dishonoring God, to doubt His word as to His having forgiven all who seek His forgiveness.

"Do you love Christ, Do you obey Him, Do you believe Him? If so you are entitled to say on the authority of His Word, on the authority of the testimony of the apostles and on the authority of Christians of all ages, that you are a Christian."

People Know Where They Stand

"There may not be doubt or perplexity concerning this matter. It ought not to be any more trouble to determine my love for Christ than for any of my friends, or for my mother."

"I do not have to pinch myself," continued the speaker, "to find out whether I love her or not. I do not always have a thrilling feeling over this love, sometimes I have it sometimes I do not but always I love. It is not hard to know whether or not you are trying to obey Christ. We know when temptations come whether we put up a fight against them or not. Our religious problems are simple ones. It is easy at the close of the day to know whether I have had any regard for what Christ wished or not. I believe in good people, sure I do; and I do not have to torture myself to find out whether I believe Christ or not."

"We sometimes doubt because we do not understand the nature of grace. We want the fruits of grace before we have the experience of grace. For example, joy is not the result of being forgiven, it is the joy of believing we are forgiven. Unless you believe, of course you will have no joy, as the result of believing God when He says he forgives us and remembers our transgressions no more forever."

Roadhouse Robbed, Two Men Killed

(Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 17.—One of seven robbers who held up Eagle Park, a roadhouse north of East St. Louis, early today, was fatally shot, an employee was kidnapped and killed and two other employees were wounded. The robbers took about $1,600 from the cash register. The dead are: Melvin Norvell, aged 27, roadhouse watchman, and a man who had given his name as J. H. Cole, of Madison, Ill., identified by Charles Phayer, roadhouse proprietor, as one of the robbers.

The wounded employees are: Pearle Ridge, 19, and Randall Norvell, both liquor, manufacturing and liquor drinking."

Mrs. Stewart is survived by her husband and two daughters.

Morgan Well Up In Fall Ginnings

According to a report from the department of commerce, through the bureau of census, Morgan county ranks sixteenth in the number of bales of cotton ginned prior to November 1. Morgan county was listed as having ginned 18,023 bales, over 11,804 for Nov. 1 of 1923.

Elmore county holds the highest record, with 27,949 bales, with 18,864 for last year. Jefferson stands lowest in production with 230 bales. Last year's crop for Jefferson county was 398 bales. This is the only county in the state that ginned more cotton last year than in this.

Board Of Stewards Formally Installed

An impressive service was held Sunday morning at the Central Methodist church, following the morning sermon by Dr. J. D. Hunter, when the new stewards of that church were formally installed. Most of the 38 new members of the board of stewards were in the service, as led by Dr. Hunter. As the new officials stood facing the congregation, both the members and the officials were solemnly warned of their Christian responsibilities. As the stewards knelt at the chancel Dr. Hunter concluded the service by reading to them the ritual prayer of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

Daddy!
how about that treat?

The kiddies will meet you at the door!

Oh, joy—it's WRIGLEY'S! Yes, joy and benefit, for this long-lasting, inexpensive sweet helps teeth, appetite and digestion.

Children love it and all the time they're getting the good it does them.

Doctors and dentists say that chewing gum cleans the teeth and aids tooth nutrition. Also, that it helps digestion.

Nothing else at 5 cents means so much in benefit and pleasure.

So we say

Trading In Stocks Shows Speed Again

(Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Trading in stocks, which appeared to be getting back to normal early today, after reaching record breaking proportions, in the ten business days following the presidential election, developed another burst of activity around noon with the result that more than 30 issues were lifted to new peak prices for the year on gains ranging from one to nearly four points.

Total sales in the first two hours exceeded 800,000 shares as compared with a million or more when the

Mississippi Posse Is Hunting Slayer

(Associated Press)

YAZOO CITY, Miss., Nov. 17.—Posses were scouring the woods in the Lake George section today for Ed Cox, a negro, who is wanted for killing Clifton Hart, young merchant, yesterday afternoon in his store at Enola, 12 miles south of here. Hart was instantly killed and Claude Carroll was wounded in the lungs and leg.

Early yesterday the negro, driving an automobile, ran into the car occupied by Hart and Carroll, damaging it heavily. The white men held the negro's automobile for security to cover the damage.

Late yesterday Cox called at the Hart store and demanded his automobile. When refused he pulled an automatic pistol and fired on them, sending seven bullets into the body of the merchant and two into that of Carroll.

The negro fled. Posses formed and worked all night without success. This morning the search continued. Hart was the son of Frank Hart, former member of the board of supervisors in Yazoo county.

TWELVE ORPHANS ASK $100,000 FOR FATHER

DUGAN ORPHANS

Here are the twelve orphans who appeared in a New York City court to ask that Sullivan Brothers contractors, pay $100,000 for the death of their father, John Dugan, who was killed by an auto truck. Their mother, who was ill, died of the shock. The girls have managed to keep the brood together. To the right, they are: Mary, twenty; John, seventeen; James, fifteen; Fred, thirteen; Patrick, ten; Margaret, eight; Hugh, seven; Katherine, five; Frances, three; Eugene, two; Raymond, one, and Elizabeth, eight.

Mass Games Are Used In Schools

The department of education of the state of Alabama recently introduced through superintendents Benson and Cowart into the elementary schools of Albany-Decatur a series of mass games which are being given the children through their respective teachers. The teachers have taken right hold of this idea of exercising the kiddies, so much so, that all concerned are not only getting exercise most needed, but are having a wonderful social time in addition. A whole study period is daily given over to this work.

Simultaneously with the introduction of these mass games into the elementary schools, Superintendents Cowart and Benson of the Albany-Decatur High Schools, called upon the local Y. M. C. A. to plan a set of exercises, daily for the benefit of all high school boys and girls. This General Secretary Randolph was only too glad to do, and soon thereafter a condensed form of exercises with respiration were started in both the Decatur and Albany high schools.

The above mentioned exercises are being put over in the Decatur and Albany High Schools, daily, under the personal supervision and direction of Ferro Himes, boys' work director, and S. E. Arvidson, physical director, respectively, of the Albany Y. M. C. A. Ferro Himes has charge of the school exercises and early morning games in Decatur, while Mr. Arvidson conducts the same in the Albany high school. The pupils are beginning to derive a good deal of benefit, physically, as well as mentally, from these daily exercises.

Fords Lead List Of Stolen Cars

A bulletin issued by the Automobile Underwriters Detective Association of Atlanta lists the names and numbers of cars stolen and not recovered. On November 15 this bulletin contained the data on 59 cars, with Fords leading with 44 losses, and Dodges running second with 3. It would appear from statistics like these that people are getting as careless with the family buggy as they once were with umbrellas. Perhaps the kleptomaniacs, finding umbrellas hard to get in dry weather, are just taking flivers as a substitute. It would seem from the second entry on the list that the hurried-but-broke believe they can get their pursuers the slip on a dodge.

"The Voice With a Smile" Answers Growing Needs

THE rapid increase in the number of new telephones in Alabama is directly reflected in the greater use and value of the service as a whole.

Approximately 3,250 new telephones were added to the Bell System in Alabama during the first six months of this year.

The telephone operators are handling an average of 659,263 local calls every day, an increase of 8.4 per cent over last year's record.

Long distance calls average 7,451 each day or 6.4 per cent more than in 1923.

To handle such a volume of traffic, twenty-four hours a day, every day in the year, requires a highly trained loyal organization of young women operators.

They are serving you efficiently and cheerfully and they appreciate the considerate co-operation which you extend to them.

Eczema

Oh! The joy of a peaceful, restful night. What a wonderful "up and going" feeling follows such a night of undisturbed slumber.

Oh! What tortures—what agony—what despair—goes with the nights where eczema and other skin diseases hold power and drive away rest and peaceful slumber. For under the cover of darkness like crafty beings of the underworld these eruptions work their most serious havoc.

S.S.S. is the established conqueror of these annoying skin diseases. S.S.S. drives these ever-disturbing elements from your system—elements that carry in their wake—lack of energy—undermining health! You may try in vain to get rid of them by using salves, lotions, washes, all to no purpose. You can't do it that way—the seat of the trouble lies deeper—impure blood trying to throw off poisons through the tender skin.

S.S.S. purifies the blood. It aids Nature in creating new red-blood-cells by the million! Blood-cells that and new rich blood coursing through your system. Red blood that drives away eczema—drives away pimples, blackheads, boils and rheumatism, too. An increase in red-blood-cells means added strength, added vitality and renewed vigor. Because the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. Start taking S.S.S. today and watch it rout that annoying, skin destroying, health undermining army that holds your system in its grasp! Learn again what it means to enjoy peaceful, restful nights of slumber.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

With the return of her two children after an absence of a year, Mrs. Virginia Brice Looney Gamble has dropped the suit she brought in New York City against Robert Gamble, whom she divorced in Paris and whom she had sued for $200,000 expended in supporting herself and her children and a part of which she said she had advanced to Gamble, who had kidnaped the children and taken them to Florida. The motherland of mankind was a tropical continent, larger than North America, known as Mu, which went to the bottom of the Pacific with 64,000,000 inhabitants and 13,000 temple cities, according to Colonel James Churchward, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., former officer in the British Army, who declares the information comes from 125 tablets recently discovered in India, which he translated. Some of them go back as far as 50,000 years. Mrs. Antoinette Fedell is shown as she appeared in Baltimore (Md.) court, where she was charged with the murder of her husband, Alexander Fedell, when she found him with Miss Hermione Ullman in an auto parked in a road outside the city. Her son, Arthur, seventeen, is charged with being an accessory.

"A Few Words of Appreciation"

The interest and co-operation we have received in the establishment of the Albany Hosiery Mills calls for an open expression of appreciation to all those who have made possible the success of this new enterprise.

The location of our branch mill at Albany, Alabama, was decided upon after due deliberation and it is a satisfaction to report that after three years the success of the establishment has never been in doubt. Much of this is due to the splendid co-operation we have had from the business men of Albany and Decatur and to our large distribution throughout the South. This added volume of business has fully justified us in increasing our production at Albany from year to year.
